

Lenka Molčányiová

Lenka Molcanyiova is a versatile multi-instrumentalist specializing in saxophone, recorder, and improvisation for beginners. She brings together experience from her classical and jazz studies with extensive performing expertise, having been active on stages across Europe and around the world since the age of 10.

As a private tutor and music education non-profit co-founder, she has gained valuable experience teaching students of all ages, musical backgrounds, and levels. She enjoys working with students individually—supporting their technical development, creativity, and musical goals—as well as leading student ensembles in jazz, pop, rock, and classical music.

In addition to saxophone and recorder she plays and teaches drums and beginner piano, as well as composition & songwriting. She also speaks several languages, allowing music lessons to be held in English, Italian, French, or her native Slovak and Czech.

EDUCATION

Master of Music in Jazz Performance

New England Conservatory, Boston, MA

Bachelor of Music in Recorder & Early Music

Music Conservatory "Luigi Cherubini" of Florence, Italy

Associate Degree in Jazz Saxophone

Jazz College of Jaroslav Jezek, Prague, Czech Republic

SIMONA SCHOOL of MUSIC